the South one not unirequently hears and sees things which forcibly bring to mind that this is still the country of "Simon Suggs," "Cousin Sally Dillard," and "Georgia Scenes." Jogging along one day in a railway train I saw that rare spectacle, a "destructed" man. We were rattling and bumping along on a journey taking from sun to sun, and about the middle of the day, as is usual in these cases, every one was pretty well talked out and a great calm reigned in the car. Then, as the train approached a station and the speed and the noise lessened, station and the speed and the noise lessened, a single voice rose upon the air—the voice of one announcing a proposition rather than dealing forth a denunciation, and yet with a suspicion of snger in its tones. The voice said:

"No, sir; I wouldn't damage no man's lot. It I rent a piece of ground I mean to take as much care of it as ef' it belonged to me. I wouldn't do no sech a thing as injure a property I was to rent. No, sir, I wouldn't do it.—But you have destructed my property." and here the voice ceased to be that of one announced for the bloader, camp dysentery, affections of the bladder, camp dysentery, affectio But you have destructed my property." and here the voice ceased to be that of one announcing a general proposition and betrayed a rising beheld in the owner of the "destructed" property a man of about forty, clad in somewhat needy black, and possessed of a red garnished with a reddish-black mou-tache, which was evidently fast outgrowing its last coat of dyc. Surmounting this face was a hat of antique mould—such in fact as may be imagined if you mould—such in fact as may be imagined if you conceive one of the old-fashioned narrow rimmed beavers, chopped off within about two inches of the band. This headgear was kept in place by a black elastic string passing back of the ears and under the chin. Opposite the injured man sat an insignificant looking young fellow to whom he was addressing his remarks.

"Yes," he broke forth again, apparently refreshed by the attention his opening remarks had excited. "yes, sir, you have destructed my property. You and old man Foster. You meant to destruct it."

Prove it said the other man. "I will prove it. I will prove it, sir, in the courthouse. I have good backers. Aleck Stephens have wrote me a letter, and will be my lawyer in whatever I wish to do. O! I have good backing, I tell you, I mean to law your for them damages. You and old man Foster. I mean to have it all out of you. And [pore] widow woman, you have destructed her property. You and old man Foster. O! you G-d-, and here the aggrieved one began to swear.

"Ladies, ladies," cried several voices all at made a move as if to expel such a violator of the proprieties. That extremity, however, he spared them. Without a word, and with the utmost solemnity, he lifted his left hand to the left side of his hat and his right to the right, much as an organ-grinder's monkey does when you toss him a copper, and lifting his hat perpendicularly aloft from his head as high as the elastic would permit it to go, made three apologetic bows, one to the right one to the left, and one full front. Then he sunk back into silence, and quiet reigned.

"You scamp!" broke out the voice anew, after a time, "you grond [grand) scamp! O, you are a grond scamp. Ef you were outen here I'd war [wear] you out. I married a poor widow woman, and you have destructed her property. You have ruined that lot. You and old man Foster. You put a scalawag thar, and he then brought in a Yankee garrison, which have damaged it $400. You ground

The tide at once turned in the "destructed" man's fayor. The whole car was instantly his friend. Some sharp looks were bent on the bringer in of that Yankee garrison. It was evident that all was forgiven the orator, his profanity. his more than half-apparent drunkenness, in consideration of the fact that he, too had been trodden under the iron heel. This sympathy, electrically communicated as it had been electrically felt, was too much for him. He arose, sniffled, and went into the other car to get a drink. Still affected, he returned, and in tones where grief struggled with anger, remarked:

"And I married a pore widow woman and you have destructed her property. Aleck Stephens wrote me it's a clar case of damages. But I don't want no damages. You can't put me back whar I was. You groud scamp. O! you are a grond scamp. You and old man Foster. You scamp! You don't dar deny it.
I'll war you out. And here, with another sniffle, our friend departed for another drink, returning to sink into a soliloguy out of which every now and then came the word "destruct." To laugh was not in the humor of the car, since it was felt the man had really been injured, but it was impossible to repress a titter, and this titter broadened into a chuckle as a long, tall bright-eyed, country fellow arose away off at the opposite end of the car, and after solemnly observing the "grond scamp," re-marked: "Gen'l'men, that man has a good disposition. I wish I had that good a disposi-Then the car roared.

YOUNG MEN. Especially, who have become the Victims of Solitary Vice, and dreadful and destructive habits which annually sweep to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to extacy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

MARRIAGE MARRIAGE.

Married persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, aware of Physical Weakness (Loss of Procreative Power-Impotency,) Network Excitability, Palpitation, Organic Weakness, Nervous Debility, or any other Disqualification, speedily relieved.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

Immediately cured and Full Vigor Reatored.
This distressing Affection—which renders his miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgencies. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the natural powers are lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions weakened. Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability.
